REGISTERED

SIMPLE IN CONSTRUCTION,
PERMANENT IN DURATION,
EASILY APPLIED, ITS SKILL-
FUL USE QUICKLY LEARNED.

The Electropoise is an instrument for the
CURE OF DISEASE
WITHOUT MEDICINE.

BASED on new theories of the cause and cure of disease, it deals with the electrical and magnetic conditions of the body and the gases surrounding it in the atmosphere, controlling these conditions at will. It is not electricity. DISEASE is simply impaired vitality. The Electropoise constantly adds to the vitality and only assists nature, in nature's way, to throw off the trouble.

A 40-page book, describing treatment and containing testimonials from all sections, and for the cure of all diseases, mailed FREE on application. Address

Mrs. Bernstein's Tears

The trial of the charge against Carl August Sampson, the American "strong man," who is charged with the theft of a number of diamonds and the sum of $270 in money from his former mistress, Mrs. Margaret Bernstein, was resumed in the Westminster police court, London, on Saturday.

At the trial last Thursday it was brought out that Mrs. Bernstein was willing to leave her husband for her lover, and altogether the evidence showed the witness in a very bad light. Mr. Bernstein, the husband, was present when letters from his wife to Sampson were read.

One of these letters Mrs. Bernstein said that Mr. Bernstein was not legally her husband, and that her first husband was still living. This statement she was compelled to retract in the witness-box, and during the cross-examination she felt a little better. Subsequently she was attacked with hysterics, which compelled an adjournment of the case until Saturday.

When the case was called that morning a letter from Mrs. Bernstein was produced, in which she stated that she was willing to accept her diamonds, which were taken from Sampson at the time of his arrest as he landed in New York, and to let this restitution settle the case. She was not able to undergo the ordeal of further prosecuting the case.

The magistrate said that he would not be a party to any such arrangement and ordered that the case be proceeded with as soon as Mrs. Bernstein could be brought into court.

As soon as Mrs. Bernstein arrived she was sitting in the witness box, weeping and sobbing bitterly.

She refused to answer whether she had been intimate with one Turner, and amid her tears she declared that she would never have taken out a warrant for Sampson's arrest if she had thought he would return from America.

A Sea Captain goes Crazy

A strange story comes from the island of St. Helena. The British ship Regent, Captain Treadwell, which sailed from Calcutta November 30 for New York, arrived at St. Helena on February 7 and reported to the authorities that some time before Captain Treadwell had locked himself in his cabin and had discharged several shots from a revolver. From the report received at London it does not appear that an entrance was forced into the cabin, or that any particular effort was made to discover the reason for the shooting, or what, if any, damage had been done. The mate took charge of the ship and ran for St. Helena, and upon arrival there gave the report above mentioned. The port officials who boarded the ship broke in the door of the captain's cabin and found him lying insensible. An examination revealed the fact that he had four wounds in his head and body. Medical assistance was at once summoned for the wounded man, and he afterward regained consciousness. He subsequently stated that the crew of the Regent, headed by the chief mate, had mutinied and threatened to kill him. He believed it was their intention to fire the ship and then abandon her, leaving him on board to perish. Seeing them, as he supposed, setting fire to the vessel, he went into his cabin, locked the door, and tried to blow his brains out, preferring to meet death in this manner than to be burned up with the ship.

The captain's improbable story was not believed, and an examination was made as to his sanity. The physicians decided that he was insane, and that he should be sent to his home in England in the care of a doctor. He and his medical attendant sailed on the British steamer Dunbar Castle, which called at St. Helena on her way from Table Bay for London, and arrived there Saturday. The doctor extracted the bullets in the captain's head and body on the voyage.

The Regent has been detained at St. Helena, the governor not deeming it desirable to allow her to proceed in the charge of the mate.

YOUNG BLAINE'S NEW FLAME—Gossip concerning James G. Blaine, jr., from whom Marie Nevins Blaine has just been divorced, has taken a new turn.

It is now whispered that the young son of the Secretary of State has a new marital project in his mind, through which, if all plans carry, the Blaine name and dignity are to balance a rather extensive fortune, with some personal accomplishments on the part of the fortune's possessor. The young lady mentioned in this piece of gossip is one of the Misses Patton, orphans, whose father was a rich California miner and whose mother became a very ambitious widow some years previous to her own death. Besides their millions the girls have a very handsome house in Washington, where they entertain sumptuously.
